Adults Encouraged to Schedule Annual Wellness Visits

Knox County Hospital District discusses the importance of preventative healthcare.

KNOX CITY, Texas (October 27, 2023) – Are you taking the proper precautions to prevent the onset of certain ailments? Do you know if you are at risk of cancer or some other disease?

These questions, along with others, are what medical providers aim to answer during annual wellness visits. Essential screenings and tests are important and Knox County Hospital District (KCHD) reminds individuals in the community to schedule annual wellness visits.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), regular health exams, screenings, and tests can help medical providers find problems in patients before they advance.

“When it comes to preventative healthcare, an annual wellness exam along with the appropriate yearly immunizations can be make a big in our overall health,” says James Kirklin, FNP and Doctor of Chiropractic at the Knox City Clinic, a service of KCHD. “Individuals who take a proactive role in their healthcare demonstrate that they are doing what they can to live a longer, healthier life.”

The CDC estimates that fewer than half of American adults, age 65 or older, and fewer than a quarter of adults, ages 50 to 64, receive the recommended level of preventative health services such as immunizations and cancer and cardiovascular screenings.

An annual wellness exam is a yearly appointment with your primary care provider to review your health status and develop a personalized preventative healthcare plan tailored to you. These exams typically review height and weight changes; check for possible diseases that could be treated early; update necessary immunizations; and order laboratory screenings that check such things as cholesterol, blood pressure and blood sugar levels.

Before your next wellness visit, Kirklin recommends that you review your family health history and write down any new conditions or diseases that have occurred in your family since your last visit. If you have put off any health screenings previously recommended, it is important that you share that information with your medical provider. Lastly, think about any symptoms you have been experiencing or want to ask your healthcare provider.

“Use the annual wellness visit as an opportunity to discuss your overall health with your primary care provider. It is a wonderful opportunity to get answers many of the health-related questions that you may have,” Kirklin explains. “Being open and honest is what’s most important during these visits. After all, this is your health we’re talking about here.”

Medicare and most private health insurance plans cover the cost of preventative annual wellness exams and most immunizations.
